GENERAL INFORMATION

Who Is Required to Have This License?

Any individual, unless exempt from licensing, who for compensation or gain or in the expectation of compensation or gain: (1) takes a residential mortgage loan application; or (2) offers or negotiates the terms of a residential mortgage loan. See Texas Finance Code §180.002(19).

All Independent Contractor Processors and Independent Contractor Underwriters must also obtain this license to engage in the activities of a loan processor or underwriter. An individual working as a loan processor other than as an employee for an appropriate entity constitutes an Independent Contractor Processor and must be licensed. See Texas Finance Code §180.051(b). A “loan processor or underwriter” means “an individual who performs clerical or support duties as an employee at the direction of and subject to the supervision and instruction of an individual licensed as a residential mortgage loan originator or exempt from licensure under Section 180.003.” See Texas Finance Code §180.002(11). “Clerical or support duties” are defined by Texas Finance Code §180.002(1), as: “following the receipt of an application from a consumer, includes: (A) the receipt, collection, distribution, and analysis of information related to the processing or underwriting of a residential mortgage loan; and (B) communication with a consumer to obtain information necessary to process or underwrite a loan, to the extent that the communication does not include offering or negotiating loan rates or terms or counseling the consumer about residential mortgage loan rates or terms.” If a processor or underwriter is paid as a W2 employee of the residential mortgage loan company or mortgage banker and is sponsored by a residential mortgage loan company or mortgage banker, then no residential mortgage loan originator license is required. If a processor or underwriter is paid as a 1099 employee, then a residential mortgage loan originator license is required.

Employees of a Credit Union Service Organizations (CUSOs) that engage in mortgage loan origination activities must submit an application for this license.

“Takes a residential mortgage loan application,” means “when an individual receives a residential mortgage loan application for the purpose of facilitating a decision on whether to extend an offer of residential mortgage loan terms to a mortgage applicant or prospective mortgage applicant, whether the application is received directly or indirectly from the mortgage applicant or prospective mortgage applicant, and regardless of whether or not a particular lender has been identified or selected.” 7 Texas Administrative Code § 80.2(20) and § 81.2(19).

An application means “a request, in any form, for an offer (or a response to a solicitation for an offer) of residential mortgage loan terms, and the information about the mortgage applicant that is customary or necessary in a decision on whether to make such an offer, including, but not limited to, a mortgage applicant's name, income, social security number to obtain a credit report, property address, an estimate of the value of the real estate, and/or the mortgage loan amount.” See 7 Texas Administrative Code § 80.2(1) and § 81.2(1).

"Offers or negotiates the terms of a residential mortgage loan," means, among other things, “when an individual:

- (1) arranges or assists a mortgage applicant or prospective mortgage applicant in obtaining or applying to obtain, or otherwise secures an extension of consumer credit for another person, in connection with obtaining or applying to obtain a residential mortgage loan;
- (2) presents for consideration by a mortgage applicant or prospective mortgage applicant particular residential mortgage loan terms (including rates, fees and other costs); or
- (3) communicates directly or indirectly with a mortgage applicant or prospective mortgage applicant for the purpose of reaching a mutual understanding about particular residential mortgage loan terms.” See 7 Texas Administrative Code § 80.2(12) and § 81.2(12).

The Department of Savings and Mortgage Lending does not issue paper licenses for this license type.
